Yes, these numbers are higher than the amounts of colleges and universities in Canada. However, many of them have more than one registered charity operating under their name. It also includes some student unions, religious sects, and graduate student groups.

Visit this earlier piece for some of the grant money received on behalf of the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. This isn't difficult to find.

If the audio sounds a bit off in the video, it had to be compressed in order to be uploaded to this site. The original is available here.

While the video is by no means exhaustive, there were some key takeaways:

- College and universities are registered charities with the C.R.A.
- They're eligible for rent subsidies, CERS, from their status as charities
- The schools (or at least some groups within) have received CEWS, the wage subsidy
- They take money from private donors, which includes pharmaceutical pushers
- Canadian taxpayers forced to subsidize FOREIGN universities through C.R.A.

Although not in this video, it's worth mentioning that universities regularly receive large grants from groups like CIHR, the Canadian Institutes for Health Research. For many professors, this funding is essential to do research. Are they really going to debunk their Government masters? Of course, that's a major topic that deserves its own piece.

Of course, NSERC (Natural Sciences & Engineering Research Council), and SSHRC (Social Studies & Humanities Research Council), distribute money to other parts of universities. It's fair to assume that these schools are well aware of the outcomes that are expected.

What is the result of this? There are significant financial interests in having post secondary institutions play along with the "pandemic" narrative. Consequently, there has been no real opposition to imposing masks and vaccine passports in the schools.

Also consider that virtually all schools have nursing and other health programs. Many universities have medical schools. There's too much tied up in the status quo to pose a genuine threat.

Vital questions are not asked as a result of these policies. Issues such as no virus ever being isolated, (see Fluoride Free Peel's work) should be front and center in this discussion. But they aren't.

Another important question is how the World Health Organization defines a "Covid death". The result would be funny, if not for the real world consequences.

Definitions Matter - Covid Death

2. Had a POC NAAT or POC antigen test for SARS-CoV-2 completed and the result is preliminary (presumptive) positive or
3. Had a validated POC antigen test for SARS-CoV-2 completed and the result is positive

Deceased case

A probable or confirmed COVID-19 case wh[illegible]th resulted from a clinically compatible illness, unless there is a clear alternative [illegible]h identified (e.g., trauma, poisoning, drug overdose).

A Medical Officer of Health, relevant public [illegible]ority, or coroner may use their discretion when determining if a death was due to COVID-19, and their judgement will supersede the above-mentioned criteria.

A death due to COVID-19 may be attributed when COVID-19 is the cause of death or contributing factor.

2. DEFINITION FOR DEATHS DUE TO COVID-19

A death due to COVID-19 is defined for surveillance purposes as a death resulting from a clinically compatible illness, in a probable or confirmed COVID-19 case, unless there is a clear alternative cause of death that cannot be related to COVID disease (e.g. trauma). There should be no period of complete recovery from COVID-19 between illness and death.

A death due to COVID-19 may not be attributed to another disease (e.g. cancer) and should be counted independently of preexisting conditions that are suspected of triggering a severe course of COVID-19.

Unfortunately, this isn't satire. The WHO actually provides this incredibly vague and meaningless definition. (See archive here). It's been covered elsewhere on this site, and is worth bringing up again.

These are just a few of the basic questions that colleges and universities should be having their students think about. After all, they pitch themselves as institutions of higher learning. Instead, they serve to promote the status quo.

Come to think of it: plenty of schools offer some kind of media or journalism program. However, the "next generation" of journalists and reporters don't seem interested in doing real research. Sadly, that's not too surprising anymore.

This continues the list of institutions that are getting funded to shill the "pandemic" narrative. These include: restaurants and hotels, political parties, law firms, more law firms, churches, trucking associations, chambers of commerce, financial institutions, the publishing industry, and gyms, just to name a few of them.

As with so many groups supporting these "pandemic measures", just follow the money. It explains a lot about their actions. Yes, it sounds cynical to equate these decisions with selling out, but what other explanations are there?

I remember seeing ‘indigenous’ elder Graydon Nichols rolling up his sleeve to encourage the vaxx in N.B. He is a perfect example of a university-brainwashed man who thinks he is ‘educated’ .. he spouts all the correct rhetoric to get along and be a team player with the global governance crew.. you can read his commentary here: https://www.atlanticuniversities.ca/studying/champions/ [attorney, judge, politicians, lieutenant-governor in N.B. – he is the perfect mouthpiece for their agenda using the word ‘community’ as they always do]
